

At distance, but still together!

We believe that only by acting as a strong community we can overcome this situation.

To make sailing safer, let's remember some basic things we can do, we could call them "The Updated RULES OF THE SEA".

Go boating only with people from your immediate household.

Keep your distance to other boats – no beaching next to someone else, no rafting.

Keep disinfectants and face masks close by and wash your hands as often as possible.

Try to avoid unnecessary contact and keep a safe distance when talking to others.

Ask about specific local regulations in place – for example some countries ask for health protocols for each passenger.

To sea crowded areas or marine traffic you can use our smartphone application to make informed decisions.